

Following is a selection of recent reports and articles to help guide some of our thinking in the preparation for the ACODE 66 workshop: 'Backing the right horses: Perspectives on online learning success.' Looking forward to the discussion!

Students' experiences and expectations of technologies: An Australian study designed to inform planning and development decisions <http://ascilite.org.au/ajet/submission/index.php/AJET/article/view/127/56>

>

Australasian Journal of Educational Technology, 2013, 29(2).

Maree Gosper, Janne Malfroy, Jo McKenzie

Innovating Pedagogy, 2013. Open University Innovation Report 2

The series of reports explores new forms of teaching, learning and assessment for an interactive world, to guide teachers and policy makers in productive innovation. http://www.open.ac.uk/personalpages/mike.sharples/Reports/Innovating_Pedagogy_report_2013.pdf

The Future of College

Graeme Wood, September 2014, The

Atlantic <http://www.theatlantic.com/features/archive/2014/08/the-future-of-college/375071/>

A close look at the 'Minerva' experience

I LOVE YOU, PLEASE CHANGE. Universities and their relationships

This paper is one of a series of reports commissioned for Taking Action for Canada: Jobs and Skills for the 21st Century, an initiative of the Canadian Council of Chief Executives (CCCE).

Stephen J. Toope, October 2014

<http://www.ceocouncil.ca/wp-content/uploads/2014/09/Toope-CCCE-Paper-FINAL.pdf>

Deborah Jones | Associate Director, Learning Environments

The University of Melbourne

Elisabeth Murdoch Building, (Parkville Campus), Victoria 3010, Australia

T +61 3 8344 5600 | M 0438 018 382

E djones@unimelb.edu.au | W www.le.unimelb.edu.au/